Purpose

This policy defines the conditions under which eligible employees may work from home and the responsibilities that apply during remote work.

Eligibility

Employees who have completed probation may request work from home when their role can be performed effectively outside the office. Certain roles that require physical presence may not be eligible.

Weekly Limit

Eligible employees may normally work from home for up to 2 days per week. A different arrangement may be approved for specific business requirements.

Approval

Employees must obtain approval from their reporting manager before working from home. An approved WFH request does not automatically apply to future weeks.

Working Hours

Employees working from home must follow their normal working schedule unless a different schedule has been approved.

Availability

Employees must remain reachable through approved communication tools, attend scheduled meetings, and respond to work-related requests during working hours.

Workspace

Employees are expected to maintain a suitable work area where company information can be handled securely and confidential conversations cannot be overheard.

Office Requirement

Managers may require employees to attend the office for meetings, collaboration, training, or business requirements even when the employee normally uses WFH days.
